Congressional.

It is pleasing to notice that the Jacobins at Washington have been snubbed, and that they have ceased their "hue and cry" for more blood. In their work of ruin they proposed to cut off the official head of President Johnson, by impeachment, for supposed high crimes. These crimes consisted simply in his determined opposition to radicalism. He believed that bond-holders and negroes were entitled to no more rights under the constitution than white people. The Radical Jacobins have been of the opinion that all the privileges should be given up entirely to that class of people—the poorest and the richest, and that the middle class of white people should enslave themselves, and were expected only to toil and pay taxes. The New York Tribune, the organ of the Republican party, said not long since, that their party owed an immense debt to the Freedmen of the South, and to the bond-holders. They owed nothing to the soldier, who gave his time, his fortune and his blood to sustain the government. He should be satisfied with the privilege of dying, and being considered worthy to stand in perilous places, and receiving an occasional smile from leading free-masons, and such hounds as Sumner, Wade & co. The gratitude which the Republican party has displayed toward white soldiers, is in keeping with the loss of the confidence and support which such men have seen proper to withdraw, and as they have been heard from at the ballot-box, in tones so loud that they cannot be misunderstood, the effect of their rebuke is seen in the acts of Congress. This is why our congressional representatives have been admitted to their seats in that body, and this is why confiscation, and all the evils that hell itself could hatch up has not been put upon the people to satisfy Jacobin hatred.

We believe radical republicanism is dead, and that its rotten carcass will be laid beneath the clods of the valley next November. The Democracy have captured their strongest points. Boston, the hub of the universe, has fallen into good hands, and Pittsburgh recently went over to the Democracy, "horse, foot and dragoon," and there is not a place that a radical can set his foot down in safety, and say that this is our people. The people of the Western States are Democratic, and they will continue Democratic at all times and under all circumstances. Very many are that way, because Democracy differ in every particular from radicalism. All true Democrats are good and law-abiding, constitution loving citizens, and they oppose persecution because it is a spirit engendered by the fiends. They give themselves up to a spirit of right and justice, and with a conscience void of offense, believe in giving respectability to their party, perpetuity to their government and prosperity to the people.

Cols. Worley and Barkley, of that popular house, the Southern Hotel, Lexington, were in Cynthiana yesterday.

General Hancock.

This gentleman has recently assumed the command of the Fifth Military District, consisting of the States of Louisiana and Texas. He seems to be a man with principles of the right stripe, at least we should judge so from the order which he issued as soon as he assumed command. We publish this order on our first page this week. It has a jingle about it that speaks to the reader in a tone of sympathy for an oppressed people, and carries that power and force with it, which gives assurance that he means just what he says. We are not among that class, who are ready to idolize any man who may choose to do right because he feels that way—or shout vivas to the man who observes the constitution and laws of the land, simply because he is a drunk. On coming up to him, they recognized him, and he pleasantly returned the salutation. Arriving at the house of John Kiser, he complained of being quite ill, stated that he had taken chloroform to have a tooth extracted, and that he did not believe he would ever recover. He lay down, but shortly growing worse, Dr. Eades of Ruddells Mills was sent for, but did not arrive until after the unfortunate man had breathed his last. His symptoms rapidly assumed an alarming character, and every effort was made by his friends to relieve him, but in vain. Overpowered with a desire to sleep, thus indicating a dangerous exhibition of some powerful opiate, he begged those who were endeavoring to rouse him from his lethargic state to let him rest in peace; but they continued their efforts until about three o'clock in the morning, when he died.

The following letter was written in pencil, to his wife, was found upon his person after his death. The letter was first dated at Paris, but the word "Paris" was erased, and "On the road" substituted. Mr. Davis, the agent at this place, supposes that the letter was written in his office:

The Adams Express Company.

On the Road, Dec. 11, 1867.

Dear Wife: I had my teeth drawn, and I believe I will die from the effects of it. I owe Drexel, tailor, at Covington, for two coats and one suit of pants, $95—I owe Hill & Smith's bill; I owe Express company for old horse, $50. I owe Hildreth for wheat I bought of him. Get him to take back stock and also the farm. Dick Brown has got my will. Call for it. Jim Kiser will attend to anything you want done, because he is a friend of mine and yours.

T. J. McDonald.

If I die from this you are entitled to my insurance, as it was an accident.

A coroner's jury was empaneled this morning, and the above facts being elicited, with the additional circumstance that none of the morphine or elixir of opium was found upon the person of the deceased, the following verdict was rendered:

We, of the jury, summoned to hold an inquest on the body of Thomas J. McDonald, lying at the house of John Kiser, in the county of Bourbon, State of Kentucky, believe that he came to his death by an opiate administered by his own hands, on the 11th day of December, 1867.

B. F. Pulley, Foreman,
Jno. Stewart,
J. W. Davis,
R. S. Morrow,
Newton Fry,
J. G. Cradock.

Mr. McDonald was a gentleman of fine personal appearance, portly and well formed, and affable and pleasant in manner and conversation. He was about 36 years of age, and was supposed to be worth $5,000 to $20,000. He had married a daughter of Mr. Allen Kiser, who died, leaving one child. He afterwards married another daughter of the same gentleman, who also has one child. His life was insured for about $5,000—we do not know in what company.

A Rich Joke.

The Boston Traveler, a Radical paper, in its eagerness to abuse Democrats and defame the South, rushes into the error of not only killing Burbridge but also of classing him as a rebel in the following remarks:

Burbridge, who was of some note as a rebel partisan chief, died recently in St. Louis. A Kentucky editor, who criticised his conduct while holding a command in that State, was shot by Burbridge's brother. Such will be the common course all over the country, should the Democrats be restored to power, as they are the patrons and supporters of rebels and believe in the sacredness of rebellion which they would not allow to be condemned or its agent criticised.

The occasion was certainly one for moralizing, and we recommend this paper to correct its error of fact and apply the moral. If Burbridge's brother shoots a Kentucky editor for criticising his conduct while holding a command in this State, when the rebel Democracy as it is called, control the State by 40,000 majority, what would become of such critics if the Radicals should again reinstate Burbridge in power? If it was the intention of the paper to cast a reflection upon the Confederate cause by calling Burbridge a rebel, its point was well taken. No greater indignity could have been put upon it than to call him a "rebel partisan, chief?" The South had Morgans, Forrests, Stuarts, and Hamptons, but no Burbridges, Butlers, or Burnside's. Curse her than her traitor upon him, but save her from this degradation.

R. M. Adair.

Soon after the above occurrence, he left the city for Kiser Station in his buggy, Jas. Kellar, Sr., and Don Thomas, met him about half mile of Kiser Station. He stopped his horse and held something to his mouth, Kellar remarking, "that man's taking

State News.

Leo Hudson and troupe delighted the good people of Bowling Green last week, and they, in turn, gave her good houses.

Ten one thousand dollar Warren county bonds were sold at auction at Bowling Green, last week, at premiums ranging from 12 to $28 50 on each bond.

A protracted meeting has been in progress in the Methodist church at Princeton. Quite a number of persons have been converted.

The funeral of young Ritter, who was killed in Louisville the other day, took place at Frankfort last Friday, and was very largely attended.

The editor of the Kentucky Gazette is a doubtless Jacob. He doesn't believe the existence of that 102 year old nigger that chops his three cords of wood per day, that the Winchester Democrat tells of.

If you want the best boot in the United States, call at J. H. Shawhan's.

Coal is selling here at 50cts per bushel.

Broadwell's Cross Roads is improving. Mrs. Barton, formerly of Butler's Station, has opened a store at that place.

The old mill and distillery belonging to Atkins & Shawhan have commenced operations, and are doing well. They are worthy of it.

The nicest varieties of hats and caps, and the best boots and shoes are kept J. H. Shawhan.

Geo. Lemmon, Esq., has just moved into his new house, on Walnut street. The Lord Mayor, we understand, is improving in health.

St. Andrews Lodge of Masons, will treat themselves, wives and sweethearts to a fine supper on the 27th inst. They anticipate a splendid time.

LACROSSE DEMOCRAT.—Any person wishing to subscribe for "Brick's" spy sheet, for the year 1868, can do so by calling at this office. Price two dollars per year, in advance.

The boys were skating the other day on Licking. The river is in fine order for fun of this character, and ladies and gentlemen are respectfully invited to take a hand. The boys say it is bully fun.

Messrs. Griffith & McClintock, of this city, sold to John S. Day, 27 feet front on Pike street, for eleven hundred and thirty-six dollars and fifty cents, cash. We understand that Mr. Day will put up a two story business house thereon, next spring.

You will find the largest and best assortment of cloths, cassimirs and vestments, at J. H. Shawhan's.

Mr. Thos. McDonald, agent of the Little Miami railroad, and formerly conductor on the K. C. R. R., died near Paris, on Thursday morning, from the effects of an overdose of chloroform, which he took to alleviate the pain attending the extraction of a tooth.

The cold weather has closed up business in Cynthiana. Many buildings that were in course of erection have been brought to a full stop, and laborers have nothing to do but to smoke and talk Democracy, and read the Cynthiana News. We hope to see some pleasant weather soon, that these people may be fully amused.

All the fish in South Licking are dying. Just above this place, near the farm of James Miller, a whole wagon load of the finny tribe lay near the shore dead. It is said they are simply dead drunk, having eaten too freely of the slop that has been turned into the river from the distilleries. One drunk will kill fish, and three drunks will kill flesh.

Henry Schutz has a fresh and beautiful assortment of "Christian doins" which he brought with him from Paris, France. He invites everybody to call and examine his stock, as he says he cannot be surpassed in his trade, by any establishment of the kind in this city. He also keeps cakes, &c., on hand and that his bakery is always under headway. Those who desire any thing in his line, would do well to buy of him.

Saxton's inimitable band will be in Cynthiana during Christmas week. They will give a concert of vocal and instrumental music and negro minstrelsy. They make a good entertainment, consisting of songs, dances, negro eccentricities, stump speeches, &c., the whole to conclude with a laughable afterpiece. The public will be notified by posters as to time and place.

On hand at C. T. Delille's, &c.

"Brick" Pomeroy, No. 2, the agent for D. D. Mallory & Co.'s Baltimore Oysters and Fruit, No. 29 West Fifth street, was in Cynthiana last week, looking as hearty as usual. His stock is large, and he proposes to furnish as he always has done, the the finest bivalves in the world. Mr. Dickey is the agent for Cynthiana, and when you purchase, call for Mallory's, and the best will be furnished.

We have received three new pieces of music from the large publishing house of D. P. Faulds, Louisville. "Bright Evening Star," words by B. E. Chase, music by C. L. Ward, price 35cts; "Echoes from the South," a collection of brilliant pieces, easily arranged by popular authors, and "Evaleen," a song written by Wallace Gruelle, price 50cts. Copies of these songs can be procured by mail by sending to D. P. Faulds, No. 70, Main street, Louisville, Ky.

FIRE.—On Thursday night last, a fire broke out in a shed near the store house of S. B. Curran, occupied as a dry goods store by Messrs. Bryson & Miller, in Claysville, and was not discovered in time to keep the flames from spreading, as the wind was high, and assistance and fire engines scarce. The store house of Mr. Curran, and that of Mr. J. B. Hamilton, were entirely destroyed together with several residences. The most of goods in both of these establishments, we are pleased to learn, was saved. We have not learned the amount of loss. This is the second time Mr. Hamilton has been burned out.

An old bummer visited Cynthiana one day last week, and had hardly dropped into town before he was drunk, and very noisy. After having been thrown out of several houses for his boisterousness, he drew himself up to a perpendicular, opposite the court-house and declared that it was dangerous for a democrat to walk around Cynthiana. He said he did not intend to fight the people of this city, and left the city asserting that "Satire's my weapon; but I'm to discreet, To run amuck, and tilt at all I meet."

On Tuesday evening last, my grey mare was taken from near the court-house, in Cynthiana. She is about 8 years old, sway-backed, and had no shoes on, with saddle and bridle, a kind of cavalry saddle, without any blanket. Any information as to her whereabouts, so that I can get her, will be liberally rewarded.

Dec. 18. ROBT. SCOTT.

One among the most thrifty and pushing men of our county, is C. B. Cook. During the past season he has erected a four story flouring mill, with three run of stone, a bonded warehouse, 40x60 feet, three stories high, and a distillery, where he will make about 20 barrels of whiskey per day. He has also built a cooper shop, where eight or nine cooperers can be constantly employed; and he has cribbed up about twenty-five thousand bushels of corn, for which he paid about five dollars. This is what we call Cynthiana enterprise. Here we find a large establishment rising up in our midst so quick that it was hardly known that such an affair was in course of construction. Mr. Cook fully understands that time is money, in this world; and that a man will not live always. The spirit which actuates this gentleman, is taking possession of all of our citizens, and we hope it may lead them on to wealth and success; and to the prosperity of our city. Mr. Cook will commence operations about the first of next month.

MARRIED.

In Covington, on Tuesday, Nov. 16, 1867, at the residence of J. C. Howard, Esq., by the Rev. L. C. Buckner, James S. Wiles, C. S. A. to Mrs. Vina Bowman, all of Bourbon county, Ky.

Special Notices.

The friends and patrons will please accept the sincere thanks of the proprietors of the Stone Front, for their kind and liberal patronage; with the full assurance to those who will favor us with a call, that prices and quality will always be warranted as low as the lowest, and the best of attention given. No pains, time or cost has been spared in the selection of goods, and the stock is not surpassed by any.
